SENIOR PLAY WAS WELL STAGED

Unstinted Praise For Splendid Acting Accorded Members of Cast.

OUT OF AMATEUR CLASS

Special Scenery And Imported Costumes Add Greatly to Success of Comedy.

A well-chosen cast, well-trained, beautifully costumed and backed by scenery appropriate to the date of the production, presented "Pomander Walk," a comedy in three acts to a capacity audience in the Lincoln Way theater, Thursday evening. The play was presented with a style which put it above the amateur class.

To Miss Helen B. Cope, supervising principle of the school, belongs the honor of making the selection of "Pomander Walk" for the annual Senior class play, and to her goes much of the credit for its successful production. From the prologue, stating the author's views of the play recited by Indus Oyler, to the final scene of the comedy, there was a smoothness which spoke of patient effort on the part of the directress and corresponding hard work on the part of the cast.

While there was a hero and heroine in "Pomander Walk" this fact was born out by other characters whose portion it was to explain the circumstances regarding the characters who occupied the five houses which constituted the Walk; and their relations to each other.

The scenes of the play are laid in England in the early eighteenth century. In "Pomander Walk" there live five families, as one character put it "as one big family." They intermingle, exchange gossip concerning one another, but consider living in "Pomander Walk" a great honor. This honor they guard very zealously and oppose the encroachment of any other person or family. Their community, in their own eyes is exclusive. They are even opposed to the "Eyesore," a fisherman, sitting on the wall which guards their community from the river close by.

A somewhat mottled citizenry lives in "Pomander Walk." There is a retired Admiral, Sir Peter Antrobus; who occupies house number 1, a (Continued on Third Page)

The streets of town were flooded many times during Thursday evening as the rain fell in torrents. The amount of rainfall for Wednesday and Thursday is reported as being 2 1/2 inches.

HUSBAND FOLLOWS WIFE IN DEATH

Andrew Sponseller Dies at Home of Son Before Wife is Buried.

Andrew Sponseller died at the home of his son, Ray J. Sponseller, near Green Ridge school house, Hamilton township, Thursday evening at 10 o'clock from a complication of diseases in connection with old age. He was about 70 years old. The death of Mr. Sponseller took place just two days after the death of his wife, Mrs. Catherine Sponseller, who also died at the home of her son. Mrs. Sponseller succumbed Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 following a brief illness from pneumonia. She was 67 years old.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sponseller had been in failing health and both were confined to bed at the same time. Pneumonia proved fatal to Mrs. Sponseller and Mr. Sponseller gradually became weaker after learning of the death of his wife, and death ensued.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Sponseller were natives of Adams county and lived practically an entire lifetime in New Oxford. Following the illness of his wife at the home of their son, Mr. Sponseller also made his home there.

Mr. and Mrs. Sponseller leave the following children: George Sponseller, of Kingston, New York; Mrs. O. A. Cunningham, Fort Pierre, South Dakota; John E. Sponseller, York; Mrs. Ervin Yohe, Hartzdale, and Ray J. Sponseller, Green Ridge. Mr. Sponseller leaves two brothers: John and Amos, both of New Oxford.

A joint funeral for Mr. and Mrs. Sponseller will be held at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at the home of Ray Sponseller with brief services at the Reformed church at New Oxford, conducted by the Rev. J. M. Roth, of Hanover. Interment in the New Oxford Cemetery.

FIND APHIS PLENTIFUL

According to S. W. Frost, of the State College Laboratory at Arendtsville, the Rosy Apple Aphis, a fruit insect, is more numerous this year in Adams county than any time within the past five years. The attack of the insect has a tendency to make apples knobby and unfit for commercial use.

Unfortunately the pest was not discovered until after the leaves had reached maturity. The Aphis rolls a leaf around itself, making it almost impossible to reach it with sprays and powders.

From his examination, Mr. Frost also found that the Red Bug is exceedingly numerous this year but that it can still be caught with the petal spray. The best spray for this pest is one pint of Black Leaf 40; three pounds of arsenate of lead and approximately three gallons of lime sulphur to 100 gallons of water.

FRED MARK HARTMAN

Fred Mark Hartman, young son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Mark Hartman died at the home of his parents, near Bendersville at 1:30 o'clock this morning following a four days' illness, from convulsions. He was aged 11 months and 23 days.

The deceased is survived by his parents, one brother, Bruce Edgar Hartman and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Hartman, of Aspers, and Mrs. Alveta Lauer Biglerville.

Funeral Sunday afternoon, services at the house at 3:30 o'clock, the Rev. W. D. E. Scott officiating. Interment in the Biglerville Cemetery.

FIGURES SHOW TOWN IS GROWING

Number of Families Moved in This Spring Exceeds Removals by Thirteen.

BUILDING BOOM NOW ON

Twenty One Houses And Two Garages Now in Course of Construction. Will Relieve Housing Shortage.

The number of families moving into Gettysburg this spring exceeded the number of families which departed since the first of the year by thirteen, according to a statement compiled by Andrew Utz, veteran truant officer and vital statistician of the borough. Figuring an average of five persons to a family, the population figures of town show an increase of 65. It is believed that by 1925 the population of Gettysburg will be well over the 5000 mark.

Additions to the three furniture factories, the silk mill and other business concerns springing up here are given as the reasons for an influx of new inhabitants to Gettysburg. One of the chief reasons, however, that more families moved into the borough than moved away, is the fact that Gettysburg has become the hub of good roads, and the future of the town in this respect can only be predicted in a small and uncertain way. The growth of the town, it is believed, will be greater in the next ten years, than it has been in the past twenty five.

Another reason assigned by some, for a growth of this place as well as other small towns, is in its size. There is a gradual return to the small community by those who moved to large cities during the war. Slack work and high prices still prevail in many localities and families are forced back to the rural life.

EXPLAIN POSITION TAKEN ON NEWS

Statements in explanation of the attitude taken at the Warner Hospital in regard to refusing to furnish daily the customary items of admissions and discharges were given Thursday afternoon by Dr. J. McCrea Dickson, of the medical staff of the institution. It was emphasized that the hospital authorities had no desire to withhold information from the public and that the attitude taken was because of personal reasons.

Dr. Dickson explained that the superintendent has been under a severe nervous strain for the past ten days or more and that she was not blameable for refusing to answer the usual questions asked concerning happenings at the hospital. It was brought out that instructions had been given the superintendent to the effect that Dr. Dickson, the attending physician of Miss Helen Geiselman, a patient at the hospital, was the only person who could give reports as to the condition of the girl.

State and county authorities, who have been working on the Geiselman case, declare they have received voluntary co-operation on the part of the superintendent in their investigations and that the hospital authorities generally have expressed a desire that all the facts in the case be uncovered. There has been at no time any attempt to involve the institution as a result of the unfortunate instance, which concerned one of its attaches.

EXTOLS WORK OF SALVATION ARMY

An Executive Committee is Now Being Formed Here For Campaign.

Several members of the Salvation Army are in Gettysburg forming an executive committee of local business men. It is proposed to later carry on a campaign here for funds for the continuing of work in this section through the efforts of the members of the executive committee.

The work of the Salvation Army is worthy of the support of every one and the following article, written by Charles W. Weiser, describes the great change wrought in the recent World War.

The Salvation Army

It took a long and bloody war to bring the world to a realizing sense of the worth of the Salvation Army. There were many organizations that did good and noble work among the soldiers, but none did better work than the Salvation Army. It reached the human side of the boys. It asked nothing of them, but gave everything. When it talked to the boys, it did not shoot over their heads, but it delivered its message in language that all could understand. Its simple devotion won the boys and has held them ever since.

It remained with them just as long as the war lasted. It went right into the front lines with them, not into the dug-outs but right up to where the fighting was fiercest. Many a lad that was wounded when he came back to consciousness found a "Salvation Moll," as the bonneted women workers were known, standing over him and ministering to him. And when the Salvation Army won the hearts of the soldiers it also won their souls. This is why we better understand this organization now—an organization that too many of us looked upon as freakish.

Are Derelicts Worth Saving? One of the mottoes of the Salvation Army is "A man may be down but he is never out." In other words, the Salvation Army believes that every man possesses the power of resiliency, though not all may know it. Some have to be shown how to "come back" but the great trouble is that too many church members do not have the patience to show them.

The better self in man must be aroused. He must be made to understand that behind the clouds of despair that darken this life, God's glorious sun is shining and that his existence will not be a continuous nightmare unless he wills it to be such. The trouble with too many church members is that instead of Good Samaritans they are priests and Levites who pass on the other side while their brother lies helpless in the mire. Here and there, perhaps, there is a true Samaritan to lend a helping hand, to help the man who is down regain his manliness, to make (Continued on Second Page)

VETERANS SURE OF BAND CONCERT

Local Talent to Play at Mont Alto Sunday Afternoon.

MAY STAGE "CLARENCE"

Cast of Firemen's Play Offers to Repeat Show at Sanatorium. Legion Helps to Furnish Club Quarters.

Definite assurance of recreation for the ex-service men recuperating at the Mont Alto sanatorium, was given at the local office of the county Red Cross chapter this morning by its secretary, Miss Margaret McMillan, when she announced that the Gettysburg Band had volunteered its service to give a concert to the soldiers on Sunday afternoon, if transportation is provided.

The County Red Cross has asked for volunteers to transport the thirty members of the band to Mont Alto Sunday and up to the present time, has been offered the use of eleven cars. This is more than is needed to transport the members of the band and the Red Cross has announced that anybody who wishes to make the trip may do so. The cars will leave at 1:30 Sunday afternoon meeting in front of the Post Office.

The Red Cross authorities are also urging all persons in the town or county to visit the Sanatorium Sunday afternoon. The county as a whole has done little for the ex-soldiers at Mont Alto, since Christmas when cakes, candies, books and magazines were sent to the mountain resort in great abundance. Since that time the road leading from the Lincoln Highway to the sanatorium has been in bad condition and was difficult to travel. With the coming of spring, however, this road has been put into better condition and the sanatorium is easily accessible.

This concert Sunday afternoon is only one of a series which the county Red Cross hopes to give the ex-service men there this summer. If possible similar concerts will be held two and three times a month. Other forms of entertainment are also being planned. The Red Cross chapter of Franklin county has been especially active in endeavoring to relieve the monotony of life at the sanatorium.

Following closely upon the announcement of the Red Cross chapter to provide band concerts for the several hundred veterans of the World War at Mont Alto, the cast of the Firemen's play, "Clarence," has expressed its willingness to stage that production some evening at the sanatorium. The play was given here two weeks ago and was well received. With its theme of a returned soldier in search of a job, it should meet with favor from the men at Mont Alto.

The cast has only asked that transportation be provided. The sanatorium has a large stage, and only a little scenery and properties are needed for the staging of "Clarence."

Everything possible is being done by all agencies interested in the work of rehabilitation of the ex-service men at Mont Alto and the local Legion post has given freely for then entertainment. At the most recent meeting of the Albert Lentz Post, the members voted to give $10 toward helping to furnish a club or living room at the sanatorium. All Legion posts in the state have been asked to contribute amounts pro rata to their membership.

TO SETTLE SEIZED PROPERTY CLAIMS

Commission Appointed to Act on German And American Holdings Taken in War.

(By Associated Press) Washington, May 5.—Negotiations are underway between the United States and Germany, it was said in official circles today, looking to the organization of the mixed claims commission which will pass on claims growing out of the seizure of property in the United States and Germany and upon claims filed with the United States Government by American citizens as a result of the sinking of the Lusitania.

The commission will probably consist of three members—one American, one German and a neutral. The amount of claims filed with the United States government for American property seized in Germany growing out of the sinking of the Lusitania aggregate about $415,000,000, but officials here have indicated they expected this sum would be scaled to around $100,000,000.

The American government has in its possession some $350,000,000 worth of property of German citizens seized during the war. Settlements of the American claims, it is expected, will be provided through the disposition of this property and the return to its owners.

DISCUSS TARIFF MEASURE

(By Associated Press) Washington, May 5.—Discussion of why better progress was not being made in consideration of the tariff bill, was resumed today in the Senate with several Senators offering suggestions and more talk on extraneous subjects. The debate, however, brought from Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, leader of the Democratic fight on the bill an announcement as to the possible opinion of the minority. He said it was not proposed to discuss each of the more than 2000 amendments, at length, but it was the purpose to take up the outstanding items in each schedule as a means of illustrating the basic principles of the measure.

THREE DEAD IN WAR WITH GUNMEN

Two Bandits, Shot Through The Head, Reported to be Dying.

HAD KIDNAPPED OFFICER

Telephone Lineman Pursues Gunmen And Notifies Officers by Tapping Wires.

(By Associated Press) Canton, Ohio, May 5.—Three men were dead and two bandits are dying today as a result of a gun battle in the woods, five miles north of here late yesterday afternoon between an armed posse and four gunmen following the kidnapping of a motorcycle policeman, who had arrested them for speeding.

The gunmen, police say, had come here in a stolen automobile to assist in the release of "Oklahoma Slim" John Stevens, a member of their gang, who is in the local workhouse and who is said to be wanted in numerous middle western cities on charges of bank robbery.

The dead: Ralph M. Hoffee, a Canton contractor, member of the posse. Eddie Stevenson, Cleveland gun man.

Unidentified gun man. Harry Harper and George Brainer, the other gunmen, were shot through the head. Physicians said they could not survive the day. Two others of the posse were also shot.

When the gunmen were arrested by motorcycle policeman John Wise, they forced him to enter their automobile and drove to a woods where they bound, gagged and tied him to a tree.

A telephone line man, who witnessed the kidnapping, notified the police then jumped into an automobile and followed the gunmen. Several times he stopped, climbed a telephone pole and cut in on a wire with his testing apparatus and notified the officers of the course of the bandits.

As the officers neared the bandits, the latter opened fire and fled into the woods where they were surrounded by police and a score of citizens. A battle ensued.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press) New York, May 5.—The desire to take profit caused heaviness during the first hour in the stock market, trading for that period being relatively light. Before noon, however, prices rallied, high grade oils, shippings and chain stores cancelling their losses. Recent favorites, especially Baldwin, American Woolen and Famous Players also hardened. Gains among rails were moderate. Call money opened at 4 1/4 per cent.

The market reacted occasionally to further profit making. Oils grew vulnerable especially the high priced oils. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 1,100,000 shares.

MISS KNOX GIVEN LONG SENTENCE

First Degree Murder Verdict Reached by Jury After 1 Hour And 35 Minutes.

NURSE IS SENTENCED

Following Pronouncement of Sentence She Refuses to Make Any Statement.

Montross, Va., May 5—Miss Sarah E. Knox was found guilty of murder in the first degree here last night for the killing of Mrs. Margaret L. Eastlake at Colonial Beach on September 30 last. She was sentenced to 20 years in the Virginia Penitentiary at Richmond.

The jury was out one hour and thirty five minutes when it knocked for admission. The large crowd that had attended the trial from the start had hung on despite the fact that with the big coal oil lamps burning brightly, the place resembled a hot room in a Turkish bath.

After the jury had taken their places in the box Miss Knox was told to stand up.

"Gentlemen, have you arrived at a verdict?" Clerk Albert Stewart asked. "We have," answered Foreman E. M. Pennington.

Not a sound was heard in the little court room. Then the foreman continued:

"Guilty of first degree murder, with a penalty of 20 years in the Virginia State Penitentiary."

Miss Knox Unmoved

Not a tremor was noticeable on the face of Miss Knox. She received the sentence with the same stoicism that has marked her behavior from the start of the trial. She sat down and refused to make any statement. Neither would her attorney, Harry M. Smith, give out anything regarding the verdict.

Judge Chinn immediately sentenced Miss Knox, and stated that he thought the jury had been quite lenient considering the testimony that had been offered.

The jury was given the case at 6:10 o'clock last evening, Eastern time. Before starting to deliberate they went to supper.

Mrs. Margaret L. Eastlake, wife of Roger Eastlake, was brutally hacked to death in her home at Colonial Beach on the morning of September 30 last. Miss Knox, 48 years old, and Eastlake, 32 years old, who had been carrying on an illicit relationship, were both arrested for the crime. Eastlake was tried here last December and a jury, after deliberating for 36 minutes, brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Defense Scores Eastlake

Persons assembled at a trial in a Virginia court were probably never before treated to such an argument as that in which counsel for Miss Knox tried yesterday to deduce from the testimony of the Commonwealth's witnesses that one of these witnesses knew "ten times as much about the murder of Mrs. Eastlake as did Miss Knox."

INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Girl Struck By Machine As She Steps To Trolley.

Pauline Shellenbeger, York, was struck by an automobile at Market and Tremont streets, that city, about 8:15 Thursday evening, and severely injured about the legs and arms. J. B. Ernst, the driver of the machine, was arrested by Officer Kapp and taken to City hall on a charge of reckless driving. He was released on his own recognizance to appear at a hearing before Mayor Hugen-tugler this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Miss Shellenbeger, who is eighteen years of age, was standing on the curb preparatory to stepping on a street car. Ernst, coming immediately behind the car, was unable to stop in time, and struck the girl with his right fender and wheel. The impact was so hard that both her slippers and wrist watch were knocked off her, and a tree, six inches in diameter, beside which she was standing, was torn loose from its roots.

Miss Shellenbeger was held under the car until some neighbors lifted the car and released her. She was carried to her home and Dr. W. F. Bacon was summoned. On examination he found a hole the size of a man's fist in her lower left leg and numerous abrasions and bruises about the ankles and elbows. She is also suffering from shock.

A man and his little granddaughter, who were squeezed between the machine and the car, narrowly escaped injury. The man sustained bruises and a cut arm, but the little girl was saved by being thrown into the machine by her grandfather.

Ernst stated that he is accustomed to driving a Ford car and he became confused in the machine he was driving, a Cadillac, and went around the right of the street car instead of the left.

DIFFERENCE NOTED IN STATEMENTS

Figures of Banks Show Million Less on Deposit Than Reported by State Treasury.

Harrisburg, May 5—Wide differences between the statements of the State Treasury Department and some banks on the balances of State moneys held by the banks for certain specific periods have been discovered by Main & Company, certified accountants, in their audit of the books of the department. The period when the irregularities in the bank and Treasury statements occurred was between May 7, 1917, and April 30, 1919, when Harmon M. Kephart was State Treasurer.

Approximately $1,000,000 is involved in the differences, although the State is not shown to have lost any of its funds. Attorney General Alter will be informed of the condition of affairs and the banks have been asked by Auditor General Lewis to give the amounts of balances of State moneys on certain specified dates and a statement of checks and deposits for other periods to confirm their original statements.

The Auditor General declined to make any statement yesterday, declaring the audit was as yet too incomplete to permit him to speak officially. The report made by the auditors is designated as Section 1 and will be followed by other sections as the audit is made.

Section 1 gives a detailed report of the amounts of State road bond funds held by banks. On four different occasions the Treasury monthly statement credited the Farmers' Trust Company, of Carlisle, with $100,000 less than its sworn statement showed it had on deposit, while the Colonial Trust Company, of Pittsburgh, on corresponding dates, was credited on the Treasury books each time with $100,000 more than its statements showed.

At the close of business August 31, 1920, the Pennsylvania Company for Insuring of Lives and Granting of Annuities, of Philadelphia, was credited on the Treasury statement with $300,000 and on its own statement with $400,000, while the Philadelphia National Bank on the same date was credited with $100,000 more than its sworn statement showed. The auditors point out that the Pennsylvania Company, in having $400,000 on deposit, was not in accord with the law limiting non-active depositories to $300,000 of the State funds in aggregate.

BLIZZARD AT HEAD OF MINERS

Army Officers, Sheriffs and Newspaper Men On Stand.

Charles Town, W. Va., May 5.—Two officers of the United States Army telling how the march against Logan was stopped, two sheriffs, who were unable to prevent or stop it, and a newspaper correspondent's story of being a target between the fighting lines, enlivened testimony yesterday in Circuit Court.

William Blizzard, defendant, indicted with other officials of the United Mine Workers on the treason charge on which he is now being tried, was named by three of the witnesses as appearing to have authority over the miners' forces in the vicinities they visited.

Attorney Townsend sprang a sensation at the opening of court yesterday morning.

On behalf of William Blizzard, the youthful leader of the union coal miners of West Virginia, on trial for treason, Mr. Townsend moved that the testimony of all the witnesses for the State so far heard be stricken out of the record. He declared that the defense considered it all immaterial and irrelevant so far as it effects the guilt or innocence of Blizzard.

NECKLACE IS RETURNED

New York, May 5.—The $75,000 pearl necklace which customs men took from Mrs. Henrietta Stromberg, widow of a wealthy Swiss manufacturer, because she failed to declare it upon her arrival aboard the Aquitania last Friday, was returned to her yesterday.

A canceled check showing she had bought it here in 1920 and statements by two Fifth avenue jewelers verifying the purchase were offered in her behalf.

Eighteen other articles taken from Mrs. Stromberg, including diamond rings, gowns, hats and furs, are held pending further investigation.

ACT IS UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Boston, May 5.—The Sheppard-Towner Act, providing for Federal and State co-operation in promoting maternity and infancy welfare and hygiene, was declared to be unconstitutional in an opinion given the Legislature yesterday by State Attorney General Allen.

He said Congress had exceeded its authority in that the legislation involved police powers which were reserved exclusively to the States, and he suggested that Massachusetts might well test the validity of the act in the Supreme Court.

TROOPS SURROUND WALLS OF PEKING

Forces Under General Chang Said to be Completely Routed by Wu Pei-Fu.

SOUTHERN ARMY FLEES

Gates of Capital Closed And All Railroad Traffic Out of The City Has Been Suspended.

Peking, May 5.—General Chang Tso-Lin, commander of the Fengtien forces, has suffered reverses on three points of the battle front, according to consular advices received here.

At Machang, south of Tientsin, Chang's losses are said to have been heavy. Along the Hun river, at a place called Kuanhsien, it is asserted that his troops have been driven eastward. The routing of the Manchurian leader's troops from Chang-sintien, which forms the northwest terminus of the battle line, appears to be complete.

The forces of Chang, after evacuating the vicinity of Changsintien boarded trains and sped to Fengtai the next station, where they made a stand for a while. Throngs of men from the defeated army approached the walls of Peking and pleaded for refuge inside the city. Many of them threw away their guns. The gates of the city were immediately closed as the local authorities had ordered under pressure from the foreign legations, that admittance be refused to the defeated troops of either side.

Americans Shut Out

The closing of the gates resulted in the shutting out of a number of foreigners, including Mrs. Roy Atherton, wife of the second secretary of the American Legation. Mrs. Atherton, who had been visiting her country home, demanded that the gates be opened for her, but this was done only after a rescue party had been sent out to her aid from the Legation.

The Chang soldiers, when they found they would be unable to enter the city, dispersed, discouraged. Many of them marched toward the hills, while others sought refuge in the various temples and pagodas located in the outlying districts.

There were numerous wounded soldiers in the hordes, some limping and others crawling, but all imploring aid. The distressed men were given aid, mostly by foreigners. They declared they had been under constant fire for more than five days. General Wu's attacks, they asserted, had been relentless and it was their belief that he would not cease his drive until Chang Tso-Lin was pushed back into Manchuria.

Americans Aid Refugees

Chinese civilian refugees were permitted to enter the city. The American Board of Missions rescued 600 of them. They are now quartered in the foreign compounds. Inside the walls of the city quiet prevailed yesterday. All foreigners are reported to be safe.

Except for the main body of Chang's forces, which has retreated eastward, his northwestern front is said to be disorganized.

Smiles Source in London. A newspaper seller at Charing Cross, London, was emphatic in his views concerning the groundiness of the metropolis. "Smiles?" he said. "I never see any. If a customer asks me for a paper he glares at me as if I were an income tax collector. I had a customer who smiled at me twice a day regularly, but they tell me that he is in a lunatic asylum now."

COMMISSION FAILS TO PROTEST

Russo-German Pact, It Decides, Does Not Violate Treaty of Versailles.

Paris, May 5.—The Allied Reparations Commission, it was officially announced last evening, has failed to find that the Rapallo Treaty between Germany and Soviet Russia was a violation of the Treaty of Versailles.

The Commission's decision contained a note which was forwarded to Germany last evening. The note points out that the Commission assumes that Germany has not given up, under the treaty, any rights to property upon which the Allies have first lien, and warns Germany that the Commission will watch closely to see that the Rapallo Treaty does not interfere with the due fulfillment of the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles.

The Commission requests Germany to state if the Rapallo Treaty calls for new charges upon the German budget in connection with compensation of German Nationals for rights in Russia subject to renunciation or for guarantees or subsidies in connection with economic facilities designed to aid Russian reconstruction.

The Commission reserves the right to examine from time to time the effect of the application of the Rapallo pact and to take whatever action may be necessary to protect the rights of the Allies.

Soviet Will Accept

Genoa, May 5.—The Soviet representatives here announced yesterday that the terms of the Allied note to Russia had been telegraphed to Moscow, says the Exchange Telegraph, which adds: "Premier Lenin will accept, demanding simultaneously full recognition."

The Soviet delegates said the financial help offered by the Allied memorandum was disappointing and inadequate.

him a worthy member of society instead of a menace that every derelict is.

However, these altruistic people are all too rare and their noble work has counted for little. It was not until the Salvation Army was formed that any organized effort was made to rescue the human derelicts floating aimlessly about the ocean of life, with no harbor to sail into, with no pilot to guide their course, a menace to those who would lead the best of lives.

The war has ended. However, the work of the Salvation Army on the battlefield of life is not ended. That work must go on—will go on because the world now recognizes the need of such an organization; an organization that knows no denomination, whose creed is to win souls for God. That is why men no longer scoff at the Salvation Army. The war at least has taught us one thing.

Utz, the reason assigned by the twenty three families leaving Gettysburg was that they were unable to find suitable housing facilities in this town. Some families desired houses with more rooms while others were unable to rent or buy at any price within their means. Certainly business is moving along nicely in Gettysburg and it was not for lack of employment that the Battlefield town lost these families. Rather the acute lack of houses and apartments around the first of April, was responsible for the migration to other communities.

Since April 1, however, there is noticed a distinct building boom in Gettysburg and of this Mr. Utz, in his journeys around the borough, has not failed to observe. According to Mr. Utz, there are eleven single houses in process of construction within the borough limits. Contractors are also busy erecting five double houses, making in all housing facilities for 21 families.

In order to make way for this building boom which it is expected will relieve the housing situation more than a trifle, four houses were demolished. In one instance, two houses were torn down to make room for one. The other houses are being built on vacant lots in the outskirts of the town.

For the present, it is believed that the housing problem is solved. Further proof of this claim is found in the Classified Column of the Times, Thursday evening an advertisement appeared stating that the Baltimore concern which contemplated building an apartment house here has decided to wait until "enough applicants are received to warrant an investment as large as would be required." The advertisement further states that "the present house shortage does not seem as acute as assumed."

Two garages are under construction on York street at the present time which are to be completed this summer. Mr. Utz has arrived at the conclusion that garages are rapidly replacing stables and in support of his contention declares that there is now one garage for every six stables within the borough limits.

claimed by all as "King of the Walk." Next to the Admiral lives Mrs. Pamela Baskett, whom the Admiral admires secretly. The next house contains Jerome Brooke-Hoskyn, Esq., supposedly a retired gentleman but who is later discovered to be a butler and next to him dwells the rather seedy Rev. Jacob Sternroyd, D. D., F. S. A., while in the next house dwell the Misses Barbara and Ruth Pennymint who have as a lodger, Basil Pringle, a student of the violin.

In the fifth house are the latest newcomers to "Pomander Walk," Madame Lucie Lachenais and her daughter Marjolaine, of French extraction.

The story in which these characters move has a love interest throughout. John Sayle, Tenth Baron of Otford, wishes his son Lieutenant John Sayle, R. N. to marry Miss Caroline Thring against his wish. He runs away from his father's estate and happens upon "Pomander Walk" in search of an old friend, Admiral Antrobus. The first person he meets is Marjolaine Lachenais with whom he falls in love. They are discovered in a summer house and when time comes for an introduction to Marjolaine's mother, this lady faints. It later develops when the Baron comes in search of his son, that Mrs. Lachenais was his former wife. At first she is obstinate to the union of her daughter by her second husband to the son of the Baron by his second wife, becomes reconciled and with the reconciliation gives her heart again to her husband.

In the meantime there are love affairs in progress between the Admiral and Mrs. Paskett and between Basil Pringle and Miss Barbara Pennymint. All these love affairs tend to disrupt the harmony of the Walk but all end happily after the secrets are known.

The cast follows:
John Sayle, 10th. Baron of Otford, Harold Newman; Lieut. The Hon. John Sayle, R. N., Frank Mumper; Admiral Sir Peter Antrobus, Elmer Haner; Jerome Brooke-Hoskyn, Esq., Herbert Raymond; Rev. Jacob Sternroyd, D. D., F. S. A., Walter Weaver; Mr. Basil Pringle, Sigurd Hagen; Jim, the sailor, Milo Wetzel; Muffin Man, Bernard Gordon; The Eyesore, Ray Shetter; Madame Lucie Lachenais, Ida Hartley; Mlle. Marjolaine Lachenais, Mildred Bettler; Mrs. Pamela Paskett, Elizabeth Schriver; Miss Ruth Pennymint, Margaret Taylor; Miss Barbara Pennymint, Margaret Tate; The Hon. Caroline Thring, Ruth Sachs; Nanette, the nurse, Mildred Hartzell; and Jane, Martha Epley. A chorus of Senior girls sang a closing number.

CHECKING TUBERCULOSIS

Death Rate Decreased One-Half Since Year 1904.

Washington, May 5—A decrease of one-half since 1904 in the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States was reported by Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, Managing Director of the National Tuberculosis Association, at its annual meeting today. This means for the year 1921 a saving of 100,000 lives he stated. In 1904 the death rate was 200 per 100,000. Preliminary figures for 1921 indicate that the rate will approach 100.

Dr. Hatfield paid a tribute to the founders of the movement in 1904 and to the increasing number of supporters of the cause. "This announcement of the splendid results of 18 years' work," he said, "is also a tribute to the power of public health education and to the unflinching support of newspapers, magazines, motion pictures and other mediums of reaching the general public."

In Framingham, Mass., where a health demonstration has been carried on since 1916 under the auspices of the association, the death rate has been reduced to the figure of 40 per 100,000 for 1921.

"This Framingham figure," said Dr. Hatfield, "is indicative of what may be done under such specialized methods and programs of work. Tuberculosis workers throughout the country will join with us in being impatient for a much more rapid rate of progress when it is realized that in the United States there are still about 1,000,000 persons with active tuberculosis and that 100,000 men, women and children are dying annually from this preventable and curable disease."

FUNERAL NOTICE

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Meals, who died at her home in Taber Thursday morning, will be held Monday morning. Brief services at the house at 10 o'clock will be followed by a service at the Taber Church, the Rev. T. D. Ritter officiating. Interment in the Bendersville cemetery.

SPRING, SPRING, BEAUTIFUL SPRING

Extraordinary the intensity of his searching, suspicious stare! Hard, stupid old man, Sabre thought. "Dash it, does he suppose I've got designs on the girl?" He would have returned an impatient answer had he not been so anxious on the Perches' behalf. Instead he said pleasantly, "Of course she's not, Mr. Bright. Mrs. Perch is a very old friend of mine and a very simple and kind old lady. There'll be only herself for Effie to meet. And she'll make a daughter of her."

Nothing of the penetration abated from the deep-set eyes, nor came any expression of thanks from the stern, pursed mouth. "I'll take my girl over and see for myself, Mr. Sabre." Surly, stupid old man! However, poor young Perch! Poor old Mrs. Perch! The very thing, if only it would come off. It came off. Sabre went up to Punter's Farm on the evening of the day Mr. Bright, "to see for himself," had called with Effie. Young Perch greeted him delightedly the doorway and clasped his hand in gratitude. "It's all right. It's fixed. She's coming. I could see she took to the girl from the start."

CHAPTER V

THIS frightful war! On his brain like a weight. On his heart like a pressing hand.

Blowing about the streets, in the newspapers and at meetings, in the mouths of many, and in the eyes of most, was the now popular question, "Why aren't you in khaki?" The subject of age, always shrouded in a seemingly and decorous modesty, was suddenly ripped out of its prudish coverings.

That was in the third month of the war. But by June, 1915, the position on these little points had hardened. In June, "Why aren't you in khaki?" was blowing about the streets. Certain men avoided one another. And in June young Harold joined up. Sabre greeted the news with very great warmth. "By Jove, I'm glad, Well done, Harold. That's splendid. Jolly good luck to you."

Later in the morning Twynning came in. His air struck Sabre as being deliberately aggressive. "Well, Harold's gone," he said. "Yes, I'm jolly glad for the boy's sake. I was just congratulating him. I think it's splendid of him." Twynning breathed heavily through his nose. "Splendid? Hur! Well, he's gone now and I hope you're satisfied."

Sabre turned in his chair and questioned Twynning with puckered brows. "Satisfied? What on earth do you mean—satisfied?" "You always thought he ought to go. My boy saw it." "You're talking nonsense. I've never so much as mentioned the subject to Harold."

Twynning always retracted when Sabre showed signs of becoming roused. "Ah, well, what does it matter? He's gone now. You wait till you've got a son, then you'll think differently, perhaps. You don't know what my boy means to me. He's everything in the world to me. I got him in here so as to have him with me and now this cursed war's taken him. You don't know what he is, my boy Harold. He's a better man than his father. I'll tell you that. He's a good Christian boy. He's never had a bad thought or said a bad word."

CHAPTER VI

UP in his room he began a long letter to Nona, pouring out to her all his feelings about this second rejection. He was writing to her—and hearing from her—regularly and frequently now. It was his only vent in the oppression of these frightful days. She said that it was hers too.

In her letters she always mentioned Tony. She wrote to Tony every day, she told him; and there were few of her letters but mentioned a parcel of some kind sent to her husband. Tony never wrote.

She once or twice said, without any comment, "But he is writing often to Mrs. Stanley and Lady Grace Heddon and Sophie Basidon and I hear bits of him from them and know he is keeping well. Of course I pretend to them that their news is stale to me. I feel most frightfully that the best thing every woman can do in this frightful time is to do all she can for her man out there; and Tony's mine. When this is all over—oh, Marko, is it ever going to be over—things will hurt again; but while he's out there the old things are dead and Tony's mine and England's—my man for England; that is my thought; that is my pride; that is my prayer."

And a few lines farther on, "And he's so splendid. Of course you can imagine how utterly splendid he is. Lady King-Warner, his colonel's wife, told me yesterday her husband says he's brave beyond anything she could imagine. He said—she's given me his letter—the man have picked up from home this story about angels at Mons and are beginning to believe they saw them. Tybar says he hopes the angels were near him, because he thought he was in hell, the particular bit he got into, and he thinks it must be good for angels, enlarging their minds, to know what hell is like."

As a matter of fact, Tybar himself is nearer to the superhuman than anything I saw knocking about at Mons. His daring and his coolness and his example are a byword in a battalion composed, my dear, with the solitary exception of the writer, entirely of heroes. In sticky places Tybar is the most wonderful thing that ever happened."

CHAPTER VII

On the following day Tidborough, opening his newspapers, shook hands with itself in all its houses, shops and offices on its own special and most glorious V. C.—Lord Tybar.

Tybar's V. C. was the first thing Sabre spoke of to Nona when, a fortnight later, she came down and he went up to her at Northrepps in the afternoon. His brilliant gallantry, rendered so vivid to him by the intimacy with which he could see that thrice attractive figure engaged in its performance, stirred him most deeply. He had by heart every line of its official record in the restrained language of the Gazette.

The left flank of the position was insecure, and the post when taken over, was ill prepared for defense. When the battalion was suffering very heavy casualties from a 7mm. field gun at very close range, Captain Lord Tybar rushed forward under intense machine gun fire and succeeded in capturing the gun single-handed after killing the entire crew."

Single-handed he developed, he controlled the defense at the point threatened, giving personal assistance with revolver and bombs. Single-handed he relieved the situation was relieved."

Oh, rare and splendid spirit! Fortune's darling thrice worthy of her dowry!

MOST ILLS AVOIDABLE

Head Of Red Cross Societies Asserts Education Necessary.

Geneva, May 5.—To awaken the hygienic conscience of the world and to wage a crusade against human misery by prevention rather than by cure, is the task which the League of Red Cross Societies, founded by American initiative, has set itself for the coming year.

Addressing the third yearly convention of the league, Sir Claude Hill, director-general, declared 85 per cent. of the mental and bodily ills of humanity was avoidable.

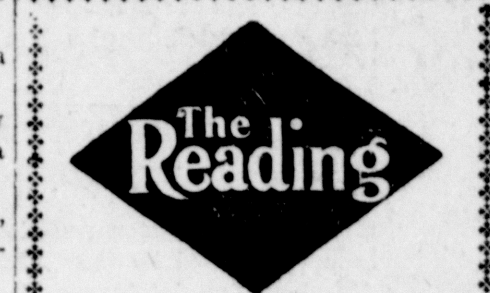

"It is demonstrable," said Sir Claude, "that humanity at large, owing to its mishandling of itself, has succeeded in rendering nugatory, or at all events has failed to take advantage of the many discoveries which science has placed at its disposal. Medical and hygienic science have advanced to such a point that by far the greater proportion of the disease and suffering in the world can be prevented if men and women but knew how to keep themselves healthy by their own intelligent volition."

The definite methods by which Red Cross activity can be directed to this end, the director-general of the league said, are three: The enlightenment of public opinion by popular healthy instruction, the development of public-health nursing, and the extension of the Junior Red Cross, the children's branch.

He gave many details of the remarkable work accomplished by the school children of America during and since the war, and he believed the Junior Red Cross movement, more than anything else, would effect a revolution in the world's outlook upon the problem of preventable disease and avoidable misery.

CARELESSNESS CAUSE OF FIRES

"A number of fires this spring were set by incendiaries beyond a doubt," said Mr. Wirt, "but the greater number seem to have been due to carelessness where individuals dropped smoking material or failed to extinguish camp fires. The railroads have caused some fires, but they have developed many safety strips and stationed patrolmen, aiding in prevention of many fires. The fighting of fires has been difficult owing to the dry conditions in forests."

Effective Sunday, April 30, there will be a general change of time over the entire Reading System account adoption of Daylight Saving Time on that date in Philadelphia, New York and other points on or reached by "The Reading." GOES TO CHAMBERSBURG

Russell, the Hagerstown boy, who recently signed to catch for Mike Mowrey's Maroons this season, left Wednesday for Chambersburg, where he will report for spring training. Russell appears to be in fine shape and should have a good year. He is expected to show up better than he did last season, because a player is always able to go better away from home. It was for this reason that President Staley consented to give him his release.

THORMAHLEN SOLD BY BOSTON

Herbert Thormahlen, left handed pitcher of the Boston Americans, has been purchased by the Minneapolis American Association team, it was announced by George K. Belden, president of the Millers. Thormahlen got his start in organized ball at Chambersburg, helping the Maroons win the pennant in 1916.

opportunity to "eat, sleep and dress as a man should do in perfect conformity to the mind of the spirit." The letter closes with a desire to know if the Commonwealth has a place where one "could resort to the prophets of old did." In his reply the Governor referred to the regulations of the State forests and to the fact that they were for the people. He enclosed a map showing the forests, but declined to make any comment upon the request. While the letter was out of the ordinary it is not uncommon for many people to ask for use of land that they may dwell apart. The State gives camp sites for recreational purposes and for hunting and has plots where people can live in the open for certain periods, but this is the first letter in which a religious motive inspired such a request.

DANIEL CROMER

He is also survived by the following brothers and sisters: George Cromer Hanover; Levi Cromer, Arendtsville; John Cromer, Dillsburg; Mrs. Amanda Nitchman, Biglerville; Mrs. Louisa Griest, New Chester; Mrs. Mary Chronister, Hall, York county; and Mrs. Allen Shue, Jefferson, York county, and 18 grandchildren.

The body was taken to Hanover Wednesday evening by funeral director W. A. Feiser, who will keep it at his parlors until this afternoon.

PLAN CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS

State College Wants $2,000,000 For Buildings.

State College, Pa., May 5—President John M. Thomas is planning a campaign for a $2,000,000 building fund for State College. An advisory committee of 100 is being organized. The buildings imperatively needed at once are a physical education building for men, another for women, a hospital, a social union building and residences for both men and women. As an illustration of the need the present hospital only has eight beds for 3,200 students.

HER MISFORTUNE PASSED ON

Philadelphia, May 5—Included in the 200 tons of clothing which represented Philadelphia's response to the State-wide call for "bundle day" issued by the Near East relief were two pairs of brand new ladies' knickerbockers. Accompanying them was a note from a irate parent, who expressed the hope that some unfortunate girl in Armenia would find them to be just as utilitarian as a daughter of hers believed them to be fashionable.

(Medical Advertising) IS YOUR GIRL ASHAMED OF HER FACE? DOES YOUR BOY GET MAD ABOUT HIS PIMPLES?

Boys and girls in their teens are sometimes very unkind, almost brutal to each other. One who has blotches, pimples, boils or other eruptions upon the face is oftentimes laughed at, frequently sneered at and sometimes insulted.

These skin eruptions are only the result of poor, thin blood lacking in red corpuscles; in iron. Yet this is a common almost a general condition as boys and girls pass through the change from youth to maturity.

The only way to quickly get rid of the unsightly skin is to enrich the blood; to help nature hurry the usual processes. Sanatol the Sensitive Tonic does wonderful work in invigorating all the organs, making rich, red blood and clearing the skin. The owners and clerks of all progressive drug stores will always be glad to supply you with Sanatol.

Fur Storage

There are several reasons why furs and fur coats should be placed in cold storage during the summer months.

1. A cold-storage room is a moth-proof room.
2. Fur will not age in cold storage.
3. Fur will keep its original appearance if placed in cold storage.

Do not take a chance over the summer season. Send us your garments of fur.

Charges are reasonable.

YORK MAYOR CHASTISED

Federal Grand Jury Makes Special Report of Inquiry.

The grand jury at the May term of Federal Court sitting in Harrisburg late Wednesday afternoon brought in a special report in which it declared "public men should hesitate before criticizing the Federal prohibition department, or any branch of our government, upon mere rumors unfounded in fact."

The statement of the jury resulted from an interview with Mayor E. S. Hugentugler, of York, in a newspaper of that city, in which he was quoted as saying the work of the prohibition officers was farcical. The mayor was subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury, and after hearing him the jury reported he was unable to give any "concrete information on the subject."

"For ten years I suffered severely from stomach trouble. The doctors said I had cancer of the stomach and nothing would do but an operation. I took my last round of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy 2½ years ago. Since then I sleep well, eat what I want and feel fine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Peoples Drug Store and druggists everywhere.

(Medical Advertising) HAVE YOU PILES?

Then You Have Something to Learn
Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription, HEM-ROID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid moneyback guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Peoples Drug store today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

ESTIMATE VALUE OF FARMS IN U. S.

Government Figures Show Lands
Are Worth Over Twenty-
One Billions.

(By Associated Press)
Washington, May 5—Products of the farms of the country had a gross value of $21,425,623,614 in 1919 the Census Bureau announces. That was an increase of 152.2 per cent, or $12,931,393,307 over 1909 when their gross value was $8,494,230,307.

Iowa led all states in gross value of farm products with a total of $1,447,893,473. Texas was second state with $1,369,471,705. Illinois was third with $1,298,906,947.

The gross value of crops produced aggregated $14,755,364,894. Texas led in production of crops, with a total value of $1,071,542,103. Iowa was second with $890,391,299 and Illinois third with $864,737,833.

It is estimated that animals sold or slaughtered were valued at $3,511,050,000. Iowa led with $420,300,000. Illinois was second with $274,800,000 and Missouri third with $270,800,000.

Livestock products were valued at $2,667,072,273. New York led with $225,465,739. Wisconsin was second with $213,022,023 and Pennsylvania was third with $156,012,051.

Forest products were valued at $394,321,828. North Carolina led with $32,735,263. Virginia was second with $24,142,423 and Georgia was third with $21,657,200.

Nursery and hothouse products were valued at $97,814,619. New York led with $10,999,758. Illinois was second with $10,768,696 and Pennsylvania was third with $9,266,563.

The term "gross value of farm products" is explained by the Bureau of the Census as corresponding approximately with the gross value of products for a manufacturing industry and for many purposes forms a fairly satisfactory index to the relative importance of agriculture in different areas. It contains, however, officials say, a large element of duplication on account of crops fed to livestock and some duplication where domestic animals are sold and resold within the year.

TRY TO DESTROY ENGINE

Cylinder Ripped To Pieces When Drive Shaft Started.

Hagerstown, Md., May 5—What appears to have been a malicious attempt to destroy a Western Maryland engine in the yards here was reported by railroad officials yesterday. No trace has been found of the perpetrator of the deed, but the officials announced that every effort was being made to bring the guilty to justice.

The deed was committed in unique manner and it is said that only a person of mechanical ability would have attempted it. A large plate of sheet iron, 18 inches long, six inches wide and about an inch thick, was placed below the guide arms where the piston enters the cylinder to furnish power for the drive wheels. The work was done in such a way that the engineer was unable to detect the fault before the locomotive started.

Plate Rips Cylinder

When the engine finally got under way the steel plate did its work ripping the cylinder to ribbons and destroying most of the mechanism in the heart of the motive power. The engineer was in no great danger. It was stated by an official of the road that the cost of repairing the damage will run into hundreds of dollars and that it may have to be sent to the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia.

Several men were questioned with reference to the affair, but as yet detectives of the Western Maryland have no tangible clue upon which to work. That the steel plate was placed on the engine by mistake is out of question, it is said.

STATE HAS 72 FIRE TOWERS

Ninety five per cent of the forest fires reported to the State Highway Department have been picked up by observers in the fire towers, according to officials of the State Department of Forestry, who declare the tower has proved its value and that more are needed to carry out the plans of conservation worked out in the last two years. One tower in Lackawanna county alone picked up seventy five fires in fifteen days and gave alarms. This is one of the best records and the solitary observers in the towers are given the highest credit by the people at the Department, who maintain one observer on the dome of the State Capitol, the highest point in Harrisburg. There are seventy two fire towers now manned by the State in Pennsylvania, sixty being on private lands, whose owners gave the State the use of points because of altitude. The remaining twelve are on high points on State lands. Each tower is equipped with telephones and maps to detect locations of fires. The majority of them are of steel.

LAXATIVE for Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.
